

10MWh network cabinets used on French highways

Source: <https://www.spmgsa.co.za/Sun-19-Feb-2017-6585.html>

Title: 10MWh network cabinets used on French highways

Generated on: 2026-03-24 02:50:32

Copyright (C) 2026 SPGSSOLAR. All rights reserved.

Electreon France has switched on the world's first highway that can wirelessly charge electric vehicles as they drive, and the results are electrifying.

In this project Electreon will unveil its next-generation product with significantly increased power transfer capacity, additional software features such as real-time monitoring, and an even more...

France has launched a world-first "Charge as you Drive" project on the A10 motorway, deploying innovative technology by Electreon that enables electric vehicles to ...

Electreon achieves a world-first: providing in-motion wireless charging for electric vehicles--including heavy-duty trucks--at highway speeds.

The project will focus on evaluating the decarbonization benefits of commercial fleet transport operators, as a blueprint for large-scale ERS deployment across all major French roadways to ...

A small section of highway just outside of Paris, France is currently acting as a testbed for the next generation of dynamic vehicle charging, offering ...

In this project Electreon will unveil its next-generation product with significantly increased power transfer capacity, additional software features such as real-time monitoring, ...

Israel-based Electreon was recently awarded a contract by Bpifrance, the French public sector investment bank, to build their Wireless Electric Road System (ERS) on a section ...

Website: <https://www.spmgsa.co.za>

