What are energy storage procurement contracts?

Energy storage procurement contracts must also take into account the ever-evolving suite of laws and regulations applicable to energy storage projects, including as a result of the recent change in administration in the United States.

Do you need an EPC contract for energy storage projects?

When developing an energy storage project, a project owner can either engage an EPC contractor to provide a fully-wrapped EPC agreement that will encompass the procurement, installation, and commissioning of batteries. In many cases, however, owners will contract directly with battery suppliers for battery supply and commissioning.

How many MW of energy storage will be built in SCE?

Resolution E-4937 approved SCE's energy storage solicitation to comply with SB 801. To date the CPUC has approved procurement of more than 1,533.52 MW of new storage capacity to be built in the State. Of this total 506 MW are operational.

What did the energy storage rulemaking entail?

This rulemaking identified energy storage end uses and barriers to deployment, considered a variety of possible policies to encourage the cost-effective deployment of energy storage systems, including refinement of existing procurement methods to properly value energy storage systems. This rulemaking resulted in two CPUC Decisions, which are:

Accordingly, energy storage will need to compete with new thermal generation in Texas if it hopes to become the dominant reliability technology. As discussed in greater detail ...
