What funding alternatives do fire departments need?

These funding alternatives range from small fees for special services to major new sources of funds such as benefit assessments, which pay for as much as 40 per-cent of the budget for some fire departments.

How much does it cost to be near a fire station?

The response time factor, the benefit of being close to a fire station (whether fully staffed all the time or not), also is divided into three categories: 0-2 miles away, 2-5 miles, and greater than 5 miles. The benefit charge for these three categories might be $15, $10, and $5 respectively.

Can a satellite fire station replace a single family home?

Until now the common solutions for satellite stations, temporary, replacement or transitional fire stations has included everything from stressed fabric buildings, to converted single family homes. Chiefs, firefighters, communities and administrators are looking for a better way. Most agree - the EXTREME Fire Station is the answer. Here's why:

Are fire departments charging for suppression?

Some fire departments are charging for fire suppression, knowing that household insurance policies will often cover up to a few hundred or a few thousand dollars for fees associated with fire protection. And some fire departments are simply charging for everything, either through a subscription fee or a charge for each service.
